Microsite HTML Review Notes 12/3

Hi Cecelia,

The changes you've made look really good! The nav bar looks AMAZING and really ties the whole page together. I know this draft isn't complete (which is fine), so I only have a few critiques that you didn't mention in your Slack message.

- It might help to have a selected state for the links in the nav bar. It's fine that they're not there when the page title is visible, but once you scroll down it's easy to forget which page you're on (idk if that makes sense). It doesn't have to be as overt as the hover state, but something small might be nice.
- It's a simple, picky thing, but on the Western Mexico page, the design on the side doesn't go to the bottom of the page
